

Does not live up to its reputation!

The Fountain Hotel, Las Vegas, USA

11/20/2018

First impressions on check in are of how enormous and busy the hotel is - checked into our room which was dark and dreary, with a view of a massive building site - not quite what we were expecting - when we requested to change rooms we were told that there was no other room available so had to stay put. The fountains are pretty but that is about it really - service was not good and the whole place was just teeming with people everywhere - a relief to check out after 3 days! To be fair, I have no idea how it compares to other hotels in Las Vegas, but I won't be going back again!
